“THE AIM OF EDUCATION IS THE KNOWLEDGE
NOT OF FACT, BUT OF VALUES”

Dean William R. Inge

Undoubtedly, education is the most powerful tool available to mankind and which can actually bring a change in a person's life at every step taken. It moulds and transforms our beliefs, our values, our culture and our living standards in such a way that we are forced to look at the broader perspective of the world. Hence, I believe every individual should be given an opportunity to grasp as much knowledge as possible, not only through books but also through the experience of their elders, corporate gurus and market experts in the industry.

Education plays a vital role in bringing out the wisdom and the creative aspect of an individual. As commonly mistaken, education should not only be used as a tool for career advancement, higher pay and empowerment for a graduate's job search, but it should be a means to achieve self-respect, self-discipline and a passion to deliver.

The emblem to incorporate this multidimensional learning experience has been adopted by Biztek in various ways. It grooms an individual through hard work, struggle, creativity, dedication and a sense of fulfillment to achieve desired heights and become a success professional.

Through this newsletter I take this opportunity to introduce you to the fervor of events and activities that are a routine of Biztek campus life, along with the academic excellence that we have achieved so far.

This is our journey to "Brilliance"...

Manzil Unhe Mili Jo Shareek-e-Safar Na Thay - A Flaring Inter-University Debate Competition

By Nazia Khan (BB 1748)

Biztek was thankful and grateful to experience an inter-university debate competition held within the walls of our Auditorium. The debate played a host to welcoming a number of universities whose representative truly showcased exhilarating and ingenious talents through their vocal sights and sounds. In every manner these Universities showed us the many variant hard-working individuals who were intellectually and literally challenged. The debate was not for the faint hearted and required not only the panel debating but the audience too was heavily challenged by asking complex and technical questions. Even though the topic may sound to be linked to daily life and is a philosophical issue, its perpetuity and depth allowed us to take to heights never touched.

The Universities participating included eminent universities and colleges like Karachi University, Mohammad Ali Jinnah University, DHA Degree College for Women, Tabani School of Accountancy and more, while the chief guest for the event was the honorable Faisal Sabzwari, Youth minister, Government of Sindh.

Bouncing back to the topic played out on the stage by the leading participants. The debate started off around 4pm before which the candidates were seen rigorously practicing their speeches and strengthening their points of combat. One could only ponder on this thought what massive independence and individuality each competitor was embraced with. Since debate in our home country doesn't mean battling of words but battling of eloquence and speech. They had the rhythmic tone and the fluency in talk without any hiccups. Just to imagine it as similar to an ice skater smoothly dancing across the ice.

Anyway, snapping back to reality, we stood there in amazement wondering how trained and professional they seemed to look and at one point there was this weird thunder of shame that why aren't we so sure of ourselves and why do we shadow ourselves when a host University invites us to a debate competition. A reason to this is because we too hesitate before jotting our names for these competitions maybe so because of the fear that we lack talent. We should be challenged to speak out and gear up the confidence which many of us lack. Even if you weren't planning on signing up to participate in those competitions being literary challenged helps ahead in future to overcome interview obstacles.

The issue addressed at this event was of adequate relevance since this is seen widely dispersed in our society. Many people are not credited for the long years' of effort ploughed into achieving a target. And all so suddenly someone else comes by and swiftly takes all the credits of the work in a short span of time. So many of us have things planned out for the future and hope that it will proceed as willed. But a number of unpredicted turns arises which leaving the individual lost with words and thoughts. We look up into sky questioning ALLAH of what wrong did we do for which we are being punished. But one should remain calm and patient. At such times our society is popularly seen to act sentimentally and emotionally distraught. It is ethically wrong to reward somebody's efforts to someone else who didn't if account 1% to the efforts. But probably that is how the world functions. People tread upon others to climb this imaginable stair which to them looks like an upward climb to better improvement and increased living standards. But what do those blind fools know that it's Satan that puts forth this ladder. When people by themselves will realize that there is no climb to achieve the impossible that will be the day the entire world's misery will be washed.

Each of the participants very vividly painted their opinions and views as to how they saw to this issue. Some were aggressively against it while others harmoniously provided solutions to the disputed issue. The speakers were well focused on what they wanted to bring out of this issue and how to influence and enlighten the audience too. They made it not only intellectual and insightful but also became interactive and entertaining too. It is amazing to see such raw, fresh talent existing in Pakistan, the government itself should recognize this and bank on their talents as their assets. It is only such individuals that will empower and state their commitment for their homeland. It is only these alike students who will establish a tomorrow for the country and will be the leading leaders of the future behold. All the more reason for the University to invite the honorable guest of honor (Mr. Faisal Sabzwari) who with his presence made a complete environment dedicated to the youth of tomorrow.

I don't think anyone requires an introduction on our Youth Minister, Mr. Faisal Sabzwari. But for those who are uninformed than a brief mention that he was the Ex-MPA. Faisal Sabzwari a CA, MA-Economics Karachi University and BBA-Finance -PIMSAT. He is currently the Minister of Youth Affairs of Sindh. Currently he is the joint Organizer of a leading political party's Communication Media Management and member of their Diplomatic Communication. His many great works and interviews can be watched on the television battling the different questions thrown at him from various journalists. His consideration and involvement for the well being of the youth of Pakistan is pretty evident.

Moving on the end drew nearer and all participants had rightfully drawn to their conclusion. Not much can be done for people who are not rightful owners of efforts that don't even belong to them. It is an endless cycle that is being practiced from the lowest class to the upper, from any sector belonging to any industry to daily life tackles. People don't respect others struggle, all that matters to them is not what is inside the cake and how it was made. They just want to devour it and enjoy the taste. In my personal opinion it's about time we stop beating each other up for the ultimate life thought to be. Turn towards more spiritual side that has been originally gifted to us. If the entire world is running behind fame it's not necessary that we like dumb fools follow them too. We should initiate our own terms of living, value the traditions, recognize the unity and work together towards the betterment of our own country. What is the point of calling ourselves a society when what we actually are doing is merely standing on other people's backs who have worked up their life to get to the position they are at. But that's just my opinion, others may think differently.

Ending on a peaceful note and in acceptance with the participants too in favor of the subject, as an individual if you will not stop yourself, from taking all the advantages from fellow friends, co-workers, relatives, or any other form of relationship, no one else can stop it. Even if we can start correcting this error from the basics of implementing in our own self, can we consider it to be effective on a greater bound. People have to remove the greediness and the carelessness from our blackened heart. And with that came the end to the exhausted, fruitful debate competition. Now what was left was for the judge panel to decide who would be the owner of the first, second and the third prize. Ms. Khushboo from Karachi University was awarded the shield for the 1st prize. Ms. Naintara Leghari from DCW Phase VIII College was awarded the 2nd prize and the third prize was a surprising tie between 2 compatible individuals Mr. Abdullah Jamal and Ms. Hina Mujeeb. The shields were awarded to the winning participants by our Vice Rector Dr. Riaz and the Registrar Dr. Badruddin.

Student Week

One of its Kinds in Biztek's History

Many of you may not agree with me on the title and I guess I couldn't be much bothered about that because some of us who were there and enjoyed beyond our fantasies know what I am talking about. I am not that old in Biztek but the years that I have spent here and Student Weeks that I have been so fortunate to attend were bland and boring despite the event teams' effortless struggles to satisfy the students. But I have learnt through these years that no matter what you do our proud students will never be happy and will always be on the front line to diffuse the efforts made. So it's in our interest to leave them happy in their childlike wonderland.

A lot had been planned for this year's Students' Week which commenced from 5th April 2010 and closed on 10th April 2010. It is important for us to acknowledge why one should understand the need to promote Student's Week. It's our right to have a Student week in each semester and honor the strength of students that has been ploughed every semester.

Let's focus on the madness that Student week left us all in. After that mad party everyone had a hangover and I guess none of us would ever get tired of mentioning the fun we all had. Even before the week was to kick in, the advertising team was all geared up and enthusiastic as to how they would paint the University with their colorful posters. Everything had been decided, the theme, the colors, the statements, all that was left was to blow the whistle. There were posters catering to each theme such as the sports day, the picnic, the movie day, the project day, the concert day and the all girls' day out. They had played with colors and once again the University was lit up with jazzy colors and splashes of fun and laughter. Students especially our newbies who had never encountered this event, were above all excited and interested in what was coming in their way. The advertising team gave adequate exposure to the everything since they had designed teasers. One new tool seen this season was the voting option provided to students. Students were allowed to vote for which movie they wanted to watch as well as their choice of location for the picnic. It was nice to know that the Events department respected students' feedback and wanted them to interactively participate. Since the Student week was all about the student and their voice. Voting polls were put up in front of the main entrance and the cafeteria (a popular hangout for a number of students).

Once the Students' week was put into action, the first event of the first day kick started with the movie day. It was welcomed warmly with great number of students who were eagerly waiting to watch the most voted movie. By the way the choice of movie picked were '3 idiots' and 'My Name is Khan'. One surprise that was in store for all the students was complimentary popcorn which was distributed generously during the movie. Great idea!!! People's verdict, after the day passed with fun filled, was loads of appreciation and they returned home smiling.

The next day harboured the aggressive male - oriented sports day which was especially dedicated to all our male students. The sports day included various activities from squash, table tennis, and chess to counter-strike, snooker, badminton and basketball. To make it more appealing and interesting, boys were told all these activities would be held in the form of competition and cash prizes were to be awarded. All the more reason for them to get down and dirty to win those massive prizes... The Events team which functioned in a very highly organized pattern asked students interested to register themselves for their specific sports. This allowed them to devise how many teams there would be playing if there would be quarter-finals or semi-finals. Boys were completely hyped about the whole idea and on the second day of the Students' week we found majority of the boys playing devotedly and unconsciously to beat their opponent in the gruesome looking battling competition. But glad to know they were enjoying themselves non-stop.

The third day incorporated the all girls' day out in which for the first time in Biztek's history girls were given the opportunity to go all wild. Since the boys had been given a chance to goof out on their day so the Events team decided why not enchant the girls too, they too had the right to go wild. The 'all girls day out' involved girls collaborating different activities that were held in the Auditorium, it was their own raw efforts put into bringing the day together. Activities included singing, debates, imitations etc. To the end of the day the girls had kept a 'one dish party' which gave the day a warm, togetherness feeling. They had also planned to hold a painting competition but due to the unbearable, scorching weather it was cancelled. But overall my input to the day, was that it was a great getaway for most of us, to unwind and relax amongst our fellow girl gangs. In a funny way to all of us it seemed as we were having a night spend at one of our homes.

The upcoming day gave way to 'the Project day' whose theme was basically to include a project of a professor's that would provide great insight. And who better to consult than our esteemed Marketing Professor Ms. Duria Hasan. We got lucky because she was teaching the course of Product development (a course which you would want to get a first-hand experience, trust me) and so what better than to include them in 'the Project day'. On this day her students were expected to showcase their ingenious concepts for a new product. There were 6 teams that were placed in Auditorium. Stalls had been aligned at the sides and the audience was seated in the middle portion of the Auditorium. Each stall had been decorated in conjunction to their theme, from colors to mottos; all had been incorporated with their specific product at display. Surprisingly they also had come up with a live demo of the product; some could be tested and tried, whereas others were present to simply show a physical idea of the conceptual product. Each presentation included details of what the product was, how it was meant to work and how it would help out the consumers. Students and teachers of the same field keenly watched and visited each stall, they asked question, and it almost seemed as if there was a mini exhibition being held in Auditorium. Great job students of Product Development!!!

The fifth day brought together non-stop enjoyment, laughter and jokes, madness and excitement, smiley faces and exhaustion with entertainment. We were surprised by the Sprite team who had been planning its event and visiting every other major University in Karachi. On Friday they entertained us to the fullest. How did they do this? Well with their promotion campaign in which students had registered themselves were required to act, imitate, sing and dance or perform any talent that they excelled in. Obviously they had to be hilarious to win the crowds applaud, and most of the acts coincidentally included both females and males. Students enjoyed their time because they were handed with cue cards and free Sprite. People were appreciating acts and booing others.

There was a loud applauds for the ones that made them go crazy with joy and there were cue cards going up, for any 'FAZOOOL' acts. Following the madness of the hoots and as the end met to their campaign, the day was not over for our students. There was still a concert that was being awaited by them. The Events department had yet another surprise for the students, most of us who are either in our last semester or second last semester have been beaten down for completing our course of education and it only becomes harder towards the end. Therefore, to provide a concert right in the heart of the University, which required no ticket or traffic craziness, was synonymous to having a concert in the comfort of your home. Students were mystified as Underground bands were welcomed to perform; as they got ready and started mantling their musical instruments, students started banging their fists on desks, chanting 'We want more, We want more'. As the word spread the crowd in Auditorium doubled from before. There were around 5 bands to perform and all of them seemed to be professionals. They sang songs that were classical popular and recent pops. Students were so mesmerized and exhausted from the previous event that they joined in with the singers and sang along. Boys were still not exhausted and when the rocking songs came on, they went upstage and performed their lunatic head bang dances. Due to lack of time, bands were asked to rush through songs but that didn't alter in the enjoyment that students were having. The Events department had coordinately asked the transportation service to leave after the event ended which was around 6pm.

waiting for them to try out. The chalet had buggy driving, horse riding, board games, snooker, boat riding and above all each chalet had its own swimming pool. This completely blew out their minds since girls had their own peace and tranquility while swimming and boys had their naughty tricks and fun filled splashes. All it's my advice for them not to forget that they are not in a military governed college but in a privatized institute where everyone has a right to freedom of speech and enjoyment. So really you need to take break on your part and not forget that socializing is healthy for your mind and body. Getting into University doesn't mean that your life is surrounded by endless heaps of books, lecturers, exams and projects. It's a moment where being intellectual savvy geek along with non-stop entertainer is a trait that we should be implementing in our students. They should be all-rounder in everything, be able to tackle hard times when meeting deadline as well as unwinding and having fun with fellow colleagues. Besides that the Students' Week was a topper for this semester and for many it might seem that the university was back to life and this was just the beginning to the many upcoming events that would take place. To some it might be the last ever colorful memory of the 4 years spent here. Whatever the reason was, everyone had the time of their lives, they appreciated all the efforts and the struggles, because upfront all looked well.

The last day was a blaster; it probably was the 1st and the last picnic that was enjoyed to the fullest. Students were impressed by the Farmhouse picked by the Events department; it was called the Country Side Chalets. They with sincerity and honesty enjoyed every minute they spent on the Farmhouse. The Events department had hired a coaster for the students to take them to their destination. All three campuses, that is the Main, Gulshan and EDC were included. Once in coasters students were dancing and jumping around, taking photos of each other. Some had their own whacky colorful clown wigs which were being shared. There was not a point on of them enjoyed to the complete extend, there were surprises too, and watching some students who normally stayed quiet and reserved came out and enjoyed and surprised their fellow mates. It's a bummer though for our faculty who sympathetically wasn't able to come and the journey to the Farmhouse where students were sitting quietly or were bored. They were like lightening struck teenagers hopping from there to here like grasshoppers. Once at the Country Side Chalets, there was yet another surprise waiting for the students. They were quickly told to get off the coasters and have their things put in their respective chalets (2 chalets were taken, one for boys and one for girls). Students were then asked to take their seats in the main dining hall where they were to be served with breakfast. The breakfast included halwa puri and tea. After breakfast all of them disbursed in their groups and explored the many activities join in with the enjoyment and the frivoloed joy that was experienced by the students.

But behind screens only the people managing this week knew its hurdles. So hats off to them and a pat on their back for their hard work.

In whole, the student week was quiet a success. They had involved the students in activities, that ranged from first timer ideas such as the 'all girls' day out' to the first and last ever enjoyed picnic. Not to mention that there were some people that weren't happy with students enjoying the Students' week. Well for such folks

BIZTEK'S Recent Aptitude Test

For any institution, it is extremely essential to judge the capacity

Keeping this tradition alive, BIZTEK has always taken full of the student who wishes to secure a seat for higher education. Hence, the educational system has adopted a simple way of assessing the mental capability of an individual through an aptitude test.

advantage of the entry test to come up with the cream of students for every new induction in order to provide excellence at par to all knowledge seekers. The batch for Summer 2010 underwent a complex series of questions at Regent Plaza on professionally conducted by the examination and admission department hand-in-hand. Every individual is inculcated to follow the instructions carefully and not to violate any rules and regulations to avoid disqualification from the test.

Biztek has always taken pride for imparting knowledge to every individual including its staff members. Rules are same for everyone. Even the staff and faculty members have to undergo the aptitude test in order to qualify for a seat.

The duration of the test is 90 minutes and the paper is divided into 3 sections. No candidate is allowed to go ahead or go back to the next or previous section before or after the stipulated time. Hence, not only knowledge is gauged but also the element of time-management, pressure handling and smartness. This time bound test also reduces the chances of looking here and there for the search of an answer. In addition, all desks are well spaced and invigilators speculate the auditorium with minute details which gives a peaceful displayed on the notice board at all the campuses as well as posted online.

We wish all the students best of luck for their test results and soon.

Interviews are conducted after the clearance of written test in order to assess the personal grooming of are individual since they are going to be the future ambassadors of our university. The interviews panel consists of deans of respective field head of admissions or head of academics and a series of personal and academic quality are posed at the prospect candidate in order to analyses their body language, speaking power and confidence level. The final list of candidates than announced securing the candidate seat and a conducive environment for the test.

At the end of the test all papers are collected together and scoring in done by the examination department in order to filter out the best students amongst the crowd. This filtering process is in line with the quality standards that are set by BIZTEK, whereby the highest scorers secure the merit list position successfully which is then hope to see them join one of the best business and technology institute of Pakistan - BIZTEK

Media Activities

Campus Star by ARY Musik

The team of ARY Musik visited BIZTEK's main campus with their new concept of program "Campus Star". Amidst the loud screams and chants of students, VJ Urwa and VJ Shahzad indulged with the students conducting various full filled activities. Chit chatting about BIZTEK the students elaborated on the number of sports and entertainment activities that are provided by the institute besides the regular course of education. As per the theme of the program, both the hosts distributed various titles to the students like "Barbie Doll of the Campus", "Macho Man of the Campus", "Geek of the Campus" etc. but conducting a polling from the students present on campus. In addition, prizes of their sponsors were also distributed by them. The program was aired on 22nd March 2010.

Hum Bhi Sochay Hain

Students of BIZTEK participated in the steaming debate and talk show of Hum TV which was designed especially for 23rd of March. Rizwan Jaffer who has hosted and directed Café Vision and Youth Parliament on Hum TV, a popular show amongst the Pakistani Youth to voice out their opinions about the present political, social and economic scenario of Pakistan. In line with the same theme, Rizwan Jaffer once again hosted a special transmission program on the occasion of Pakistan Resolution Day (23rd March 2010) in which various university students were invited along with BIZTEK students. Eminent guest list included Mr. Faisal Sabzwari - Youth Minister, Ms. Atiqa Odho - Media Artist/Entrepreneur and Mr. Junaid Jamshed - Ex-Pakistani Pop Singer/Entrepreneur.

The discussion kicked off with quizzical questions from the youth about the path of Pakistan from 1947 to date and the hurdles that the Pakistani youth has been facing nowadays with un-employment rate on the hike, opportunities for business becoming less and inflation on the rise. All the participants, guests and the host handled the questions thrown at them professionally avoiding any names of high government officials but making their point in front of the audience. The recording started at 5:00p.m and ended at 9:00p.m and everyone was satisfied to see their favorite personalities and of course happy to realize that their opinion mattered.

Corporate Activities

Sprite Mad About TV

Sprite recently launched its campaigning by the name of Sprite Mad About TV for which they have already visited all leading universities, BIZTEK being one of them. The activity was conducted in the Auditorium of Main Campus and almost 150 students participated. Students showcased their acting, dancing and singing talent which was then judged by the audience with the cardboards distributed by the Sprite team having the words "KOOL" on one side and "FAZOOOL" on the other side. If they did not like any item presented by any student placards of "FAZOOOL" would go up with chants of "Boooooo" and Thumbs-down and if they liked some ones performance screams of Kool were heard. The music rocked the auditorium throughout the activity and free sprite was distributed to everyone including the staff members.

The event was such a hit that sprite returned to our campus with the same action during our Students' Week organized from 5th April to 10th April 2010.

Having a bad hair day? Try the new Selsun Blue Shampoo...

Selsun Blue came with their team to our university to give hair free wash to students and staff members. The event spanned throughout the day whereby prominent hair stylist visited the main campus and displayed the power of the new Selsun Blue Anti-Dandruff Shampoo to the students. Two washing and blow-drying booths were installed near the parking area and students were invited to test the shampoo free of cost. The promotion of the new packaging and added advantages of the product were displayed prominently and the student thoroughly enjoyed the event.

In the course of this brand activation, our marketing students also got the chance to learn from the on-spot brand launching activities and the challenges that need to be faced. Mr. Umer Farooq, who was the project coordinator for the event also held a session with our marketing students and gave useful insights at the conclusion of the event.

The Ultimate Gaming Experience - Nokia 5800

The marketing and BTL activation company of Nokia came to visit BIZTEK along with their colorful promotional bus which was loaded with various big and small activities. Students were called on the bus to sing songs, act to the fullest, prove their stand-up comedy talent and compete in small competitions to win fabulous prizes. The Brand Activation Manager, Mr. Munir Iftikhar also indulged with the students and also asked the staff and faculty members to participate as well. At the end of the fun-filled 3 hours entertainment, Mr. Munir gave a token of thanks to the Registrar for providing a platform to the MNC and hoped to keep the relationship alive till next time.

Bo Kaataaaaaaaa!!! Basant at its Peak!

What better way to kick off the year than with the most colorful festival of Basant. Biztek kept the spirit of our forefathers alive and placed a mark on the hearts and minds of Karachites on the 20th of Feb 2010.

Joining hand with eventsdotcom and Pavilion Ends Club, Biztek gave the most happening event of the city to all Biztekians. The event comprised of mouth-watering food street, media stalls, carnival area, musical concert, fashion show and of course the kite flying competition all packed in one.

Chef Maida and Chef Rahat were both seen on the food street displaying on the spot cooking competitions and giving autographs to their fans. On the Carnival side, Nelson Paints were distributing prizes and gift hampers to young and old in addition to running small skits and competitions.

Screams of "Bo Kaata" were heard from all directions as men and women displayed their kite-flying skills. An Inter-University kite flying competition was also organized and of course our "Cheetas" of Biztek grabbed the winner's position. Way to go Biztekians!

The highlight of the event was the musical concert and as always, Biztek provided a platform to our own student's band named "Gardish", whose music gave a reason to dance away to their beats. Although, they had to face a few technical issues with the sound and light, our management gave full support to hit the strings once more and pull the crowd together. Songs like "Laal Meri Pat" and "Sain" made the crowd go wild and left them sour throat. Finally the evening ended with Fashion Show of "Meerub" - a top brand of clothing, which was a delight to witness. Ladies and men cat-walked on the ramp to display the latest in fashion that Meerub had to offer. The crowd enjoyed the aesthetic senses to the fullest.

All in all it was a mega event, full of fun and entertainment for families and friends and all credit goes to our student members who volunteered to be a part of the management committee.

The event was covered by media partners like Good News, ARY Digital Network and Samaa TV.

Counseling Visits to Schools and Colleges

Biztek rejuvenated their Counseling visits once again this year to provide decision-making power to the young minds. The counseling visits were arranged during the last week of January and first week of February.

Schools and colleges included during these visits were, but not limited to, Saint Michael's Convent School, Government National Boys College, Noor College of Science & Commerce, etc.

The educational and occupational scene is fast changing everywhere. Curriculum and Co-Curriculum offerings have tremendously expanded during the past few years. Occupations too have become manifold. It is becoming extremely difficult for the educational generalists to prepare the young for education, training and vocation in this rapidly changing world. In addition, quite a few numbers of students in our schools, colleges and universities find themselves in the grip of personal adjustments problems. Feeling of insecurity, conflicts with peers and teachers, low academic achievement, financial crises and associated problems create tension and anxiety in students. All these factors make it necessary that we take hard and realistic look at our education to find out ways and means for analyzing the energies of the students. Therefore, Biztek has taken the responsibility of providing guidance and counseling to students regardless of the education programs that we offer.

Our expert career counseling presentation and one-on-one interaction with under-graduate students helps them choose their right educational path leading towards their career goal. In addition, presentation on choosing the right universities/institutes, personal grooming and becoming confident about their choice forms an integral part of these visits. Our students actively participate in these counseling sessions and pose a model role of becoming a Biztekian. This helps them brush their presentation skills and boost their confidence to a higher level. This time our young stars were Ms. Nazia Khan, Mr. Ahad Iqbal, Mr. Muhammad Ammad, Mr. Yaqoob

Abdullah and Mr. Umair Nizam who shared their educational and professional experience with the students of the respective schools and colleges

We believe that every institution plays an important role in shaping the destiny of a nation as they provide guidance and counseling facilities at the most impressionable stage of life of an individual. In education, guidance and counseling services are a means to help the students understand their problems and solve them in their environment. This service is as old as education itself and we at Biztek have taken the first step to provide and promote this social service free of cost to all those young minds that are desperately looking for guidance and are not getting the same from their family and existing institutions.

May God give us further strength to carry on with this noble cause. Aameen.

Education at its Best!

Fulbright visits Biztek:

Fulbright team visited Biztek on 5th of January 2010 to educate the students about their scholarship program, process, procedures and benefits for those who wanted to pursue their higher education in the United States.

Fulbright scholarship program is administered by USEFP (United States Education Fund Program), the US Government's flagship scholarship program which encourages studies in U.S but does not encourage brain-drain from the respective funded countries.

Hence, all services after studies have to be delivered in their country of origin.

Fulbright scholarship program in Pakistan is the largest in the world with approximately 200 scholarships for advanced degrees planned every year. Scholarships are also provided for teachers, mid-career professionals and scholars.

PFL visits Biztek:

With the feedback obtained from the students, the events department arranged a visit for PFL team to help out students in obtaining scholarships in UK and Australia.

PFL is one of the fastest growing international education consultancy services with offices staffed by highly knowledgeable counselors in Australia, Ghana, Kenya, Nigeria and Pakistan to help provide high quality, value-for-money education abroad.

Once again, Biztek provided a platform to those individuals who aspire to move abroad for their Masters or Post Masters degree but have financial restrictions to further progress with their abilities.

Hats off to the events management!

Participation of Dr. Riaz Ahmed Shaikh in International Conference New Delhi, India

Dr. Riaz Ahmed Shaikh, Associate Professor, Biztek participated International Conference on Conflict Management, Peace Economics and Peace Science, 11-13 January 2010 Jointly organized by Indira Gandhi National Open University (IGNOU), New Delhi, India & Gandhi Smriti and Darshan Samiti (GSDS), New Delhi, India, United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO, India), in cooperation of Economists for Peace and Security, Peace Science Society (International), Binghamton University, State University of New York at Binghamton, USA and International Center for Conflict Prevention and Management, Sydney, Australia.

Another flagship for our higher management – Another milestone achieved by Dr. Riaz Ahmed Shaikh – Vice Rector (Biztek).

Dictatorship in Urdu. These articles have already been published in international research journals. The event was presided over by Dr. Mubarak Ali, an eminent historian of the country. The other speakers were M. Shah Jamal, Muqtida Mansoor, Dr. Tauseef Ahmed Khan, Dr. Muhammad Ali Siddiqui & the thinking and the book fulfilled this need. Dr. Tauseef Ahmed Khan said that the book was an excellent addition to Pakistan Studies and would serve students & teachers alike.

The launching ceremony of Dr. Riaz Ahmed Shaikh's book 'Pakistan: Jamhoriyat Aur Fauji Mudakhlatain' was conducted on 9th March 2010 at the Institute of Business & Technology - BIZTEK auditorium. The book comprises translations of research articles on Pakistan's 62 years political life alternated by Democracy & author, Dr. Riaz Ahmed Shaikh.

We, at Biztek are all proud of having such an eminent personality as our leader and guide and salute his performance in every aspect.

Dr. Mubarak Ali discussed the historical context of Democracy & Dictatorships and said that Pakistan will have to evolve a new basis for its national solidarity. Dr. Muhammad Ali Siddiqui praised the objectivity of these articles and thought that universities, being citadels of wisdom, should promote objective computer technology, she said.

Dr. Riaz Ahmed Shaikh, Social Scientist and Vice Rector, BIZTEK Karachi highlighted the social barriers that hindered the trade between India and Pakistan. He said though Kashmir, Sir Creek issue, Siachen Glacier were permanent issues between India and Pakistan; issues regarding cross border terrorism, Afghanistan policy and insurgency in Balochistan had proved to be the bone of contention between peace dialogues of the two countries. He urged need to increase the interaction between academics, artists and other people.

Dr. Shahida Wazarat, former director AERC said, China did not get dictations from the outer side, so it has progressed, but countries like Pakistan, Russia and Czech Republic mostly rely on foreign dictation, so they had not been doing well on economic side. "This has increased a lot of poverty in Pakistan," she commented.

SAARC Chamber of Commerce and Industry organized the one-day seminar in collaboration with the Federation of Pakistan Chamber of Commerce and Industry at the Federation House on Saturday April 3rd, 2010, Karachi. Dr. Riaz Ahmed Shaikh, Associate Professor, and Mr. Naveed Ur Rehman Khan, Lecturer, represented BIZTEK on this forum and presented a paper on the topic of "Indo-Pakistan Relations: Bottlenecks & Way Forward".

Mujeeb Khan, head WTO cell, TDAP said only signing of Free Trade Agreements (FTA's) was not guarantee of increasing the trade, there was need to remove non-tariff barriers as well.

South Asia is home to 25 per cent of the world population and half of the world's poorest people live here. It contributes only 2.5 per cent to the world GDP and 2 per cent of world exports. Only 1.6 per cent FDI comes into South Asia. Trade between the SAARC member countries is very little. Pakistan's total exports in 2008 remained above $20 billion against its export of only $578 million to SAARC region. India's export in the same period reached around $182 billion against its total export to SAARC member countries of around $6.5 billion.

Faridul Hassan, former Director General EPB-Government of Bangladesh said Bangladesh's 80 per cent export was only from garments and knitwear while it has only two destinations; US-Canada and the EU member countries.

Zafar Mahmood, Secretary Commerce, said the pace of progress in South Asia was not satisfactory. "SSARC region has not yet realized its potential," he said. Dr. Muzaffar Ali Isani, Professor of Economics Iqra University, said: "Trade between developing economies has grown with a snail's pace." Non-tariff barriers were kept there to protect the domestic industry. "Trade facilitation can increase world trade by 10 per cent or $400 billion," he said. He stressed the need for improving the port efficiency and simplifying the regulatory measures.

Iqbal Tabish, Secretary General SAARC CCI, Sultan Ahmed Chawla, president FPCCI and Dr. Ishrat Hussain, former governor State Bank of Pakistan and Muhammad Ashraf Janjua, former deputy governor SBP also spoke at the seminar. Only Pakistan, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh participated in the seminar.

Suwendrani Jayaratne, Research Assistant, Institute of Policy Studies, Sri Lanka gave presentation of trade facilitation through automation process. She said that South Asia required highest number of documents for trade in the region, which created non-tariff barriers. There was need to speed up the process through
